

From the producers of the highly successful, local gardening television show, Garden Time – comes a NEW way to reach an excited, active gardening audience!

garden time online

Garden Time Online, GTO, is a monthly magazine filled with garden inspirations, ideas and articles for any level of gardener in any size space. Each monthly issue of GTO will compliment and expand upon the weekly Garden Time TV Show, GTTV. GTTV will invite viewers to sign up to receive a free monthly subscription the GTO. GTTV currently receives on average over 40,000 viewers each week. The GTTV cast and crew will also appear at special events through the year to promote GTTV and GTO to viewers and readers. In addition to the magazine, readers may also select to receive periodic email offers from GTO's sponsors.

GTO Magazine will contain the following sections and features:

Got to Have It section picks a plant or a collection of plants that are so cool we just have to talk about them. From new releases to classics that just don't get enough praise, we share with readers what makes them so fabulous that you've just Got to Have It.

Backyard section share stories on great ideas that you can do in your own backyard. On those rainy days it might be an indoor project to move outdoors when the weather clears. From starting seedlings or designing a beautiful container to building a container bubbler we'll write about small projects you can do in your own Backyard no matter its size.

Eats section is all about edibles, from growing your own produce and herbs to great recipes that fill your table with good Eats.

Horties section interviews some of our Northwest's great plant people. Designers, breeders and gardeners galore, we give you the facts about what makes them some of our favorite Horties.

Adventures section gets you to break out from your own garden and go on an Adventure to some of our favorite shops, garden centers, events, public gardens and garden tours. From the Yard, Garden and Patio Show to the Oregon Garden there's a garden adventure every month to excite every reader.

Garden Time Online will inspire and encourage local gardeners and adventurers to get out and experience gardening in the Northwest, to visit local area garden centers, to tour local gardens and to learn more about what makes our area of the world the best place to be a gardener.
